On the top right, you will see a button and link for the Eco Organizing Awards. Click on either of these, and you'll be directed to a blog entry entitled "Eco Organizing Awards – You Could Be A Winner!"

Scroll to the very bottom of the entry and select "Post a Comment." A pop-up box will appear...this is where you leave your comment/nomination.

The comment/nomination must include...

(a) Your email address, so that you can be contacted if you are selected as a winner.

(b) Your nomination for an eco organizing idea, product, or other resource.

This can be...

- A "green" product that you've created
- A story about how you got organized in a "green" way
- A "green" product that someone else has created but that you use/like
- A "green" website/company that helps you get organized in some way

Note: If you nominate a product or website that is not your own and your entry is selected as a winner, you will receive the prize not the respective creator/company.

7. Winner Selection:

Entries will be judged by Carmen Coker of Clutterbugs, LLC, the Get Organized Blog, and Home Organization Online. The top 3 entries will be announced on Earth Day, 22nd April, 2009, via the Get Organized Blog.

Potential winners will also be contacted by email and asked to provide their full name and mailing address. If a potential winner does not respond within the time frame stated in the notification email, an alternate potential winner will be selected in his/her place.
